Rajnath-Led Panel Meets To Chart Poll Road

Akhilesh.Singh
@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: Defence minister Rajnath Singh on Thursday chaired the second meeting of BJP's 27-member manifesto draft committee even as PM Narendra Modi and other senior leaders are likely to release the poll manifesto for the 2024 Lok Sabha elections titled "Sankalp Patra" next week laying focus on the "Developed India" plank with emphasis on empowerment of women, farmers, youth and poor.

"Today the second meeting of the election manifesto committee was held at the central office of BJP. In this meeting, various topics and suggestions were discussed with a view to fulfilling the resolve of building a developed India under the leadership of PM Narendra Modi," Singh, who is the chairperson of the party's manifesto draft panel, posted on X.

Convener of the panel and finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman and her ministerial colleagues, Arjun Munda, Bhupendra Yadav, Ashwini Vaishnaw, Arjun Ram Meghwal, Kiren Rijju along with senior party leaders Ravi Shankar Prasad, Vinod Tawde, Radha Mohan Agarwal and Manjinder Singh Sirsa attended the meeting. Gujarat CM Bhupendra Patel and UP deputy CM Keshav Prasad Maurya were also in attendance.

In line with the PM's assertion that his first two tenures were utilised to lay the foundation for a developed India and make it the third largest economy in the world, and the next tenure will be focused at attaining it, sources said the party is likely to highlight in its election manifesto on the roadmap to "Viksit Bharat" by 2047 when the country will be celebrating 100 years of independence.

The party has chosen an acronym — 'GYAN' (poor), Yuva (youth), Naita (farmers) and Naitan) — on whose welfare and empowerment it is likely to form a detailed plan.

After decades, the party will be releasing its manifesto at a time when it has made poll pledges like rural construction, nullification of Article 370, implementation of CAA and UCC 100% fulfilled. However, sources said the above promises will be incorporated in the "Jo Kaha so Kiya" (what we said what promised), slogan of the party, while fulfilling Modi's guarantee of delivering what he had as-

Singh: Got more strength, confidence from this battle

Reiterates Party's Stand About Kejriwal Not Resigning As CM

New Delhi: At a press conference in Delhi on Wednesday, Singh said that he had gained more strength and confidence from the battle against the NDA government. He reiterated the Party's stand that Arvind Kejriwal should not resign as Chief Minister of Delhi.

Singh said that the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government in Delhi was a people's government and that the NDA government was a corrupt government. He said that the Aam Aadmi Party would continue to fight for the welfare of the people of India.

Singh also said that the Aam Aadmi Party was a party of the people and that it would continue to work for the welfare of the people of India. He said that the Aam Aadmi Party would continue to be a party of the people and that it would continue to work for the welfare of the people of India.

Mining resumes in Goa after 6 years; Vedanta begins op

New Delhi: After a six-year hiatus, mining has resumed in Goa. Vedanta Resources has begun operations at the Venetian iron ore mine.

The Venetian mine is one of the largest iron ore mines in India. It was discovered in 2005 but mining was suspended in 2009 due to environmental concerns.

Vedanta Resources has now received clearance from the government to begin mining at the Venetian mine. The company says that it will take all necessary steps to ensure that mining is conducted in an environmentally sustainable manner.

Ball in Tesla's court: India on company's EV plans

BLOOMBERG
4 April

The country's industry secretary said the ball is now in Tesla Inc.'s court to lay down its investment plans for the South Asian nation after the government cut import duty on electric vehicles.

The industry department last month released a comprehensive policy for boosting EV manufacturing in the world's most-populous nation. Following that move, it's up to Elon Musk's carmaker to "make the announcements of their manufacturing plans," Rajesh Kumar Singh, secretary of department for promotion of industry and internal trade, told Bloomberg in an interview on Thursday.

"We will help them out in terms of giving them the contacts at state level," Singh said. "There have been contacts made at that level with state governments and the central government. VinFast has already announced and we expect a few others."

Vietnamese automaker VinFast recently broke ground on an EV manufacturing facility in India's southern state of Tamil Nadu.

Tesla is planning to send a team of people to scout for locations in India this month for a proposed $2 billion to $3 billion electric car plant, the Financial Times reported earlier this week, citing people familiar with the matter that it didn't identify. Tesla would also look to increase purchases of auto parts from the nation to as much as $15 billion, Bloomberg reported in November. Musk's carmaker has for years been making a case for cutting import taxes before it commits to any significant investment in one of the world's biggest automobile markets.

To get tax concessions, companies will have to invest at least ₹41.5 billion ($500 million) and start producing EVs from a local plant within three years, India's government said in March.

Singh said on Thursday that the policy should help spur growth of EVs in the country.

"We expect it to lead to a penetration of four-wheeler electric vehicles to at least 10 per cent by 2030," he said. "My view is that if we have these manufacturing units up and running, along with the battery infrastructure that is now going up, it should be closer to 15 per cent by 2030, after which it will just snowball."

According to BloombergNEF estimates, some 96,000 passenger EVs were sold in India in 2023, nearly double a year earlier, and that could climb by another 40 per cent in 2024.

India's electric passenger vehicle market however has to date largely been driven by electric scooters, which are much cheaper. India also doesn't have very good EV charging infrastructure and the EVs that are on offer are mainly expensive.

Tesla begins car production in Germany for export to India

REUTERS
New Delhi/Berlin, 4 April

Tesla has begun production of right-hand drive cars at its plant in Germany for export to India later this year, three people aware of the company's plans told Reuters, as it moves ahead with a possible entry into the world's third-largest car market.

A team from Tesla is expected to visit India later this month to look at sites for a local car manufacturing plant that would require an investment of about $2 billion, said two of the three people, who declined to be named because the plans are not public yet.

India last month slashed the import tax rate on certain electric vehicles if their makers invest at least $500 million in the country and start production there within three years. The move is a win for Tesla, which had lobbied for months for lower taxes, but faced resistance from local carmakers.

Telangana courts EV giant

The Telangana government is holding discussions with Tesla by putting in all efforts to establish their plant in the state, Industries Minister D Sridhar Babu said on Thursday.

In a message on X Sridhar Babu said since December 2023 the state government has been actively focusing on major investment opportunities by global giants, and as part of its focus, Tesla's planned investment initiatives in India are also being tracked.

"We have been studying and tracking Tesla's planned investment initiatives in India. We have been making all out efforts to bring Tesla to Telangana for some time..." he said.

to India, they have started building them," one of the people said, with some cars due to be shipped to India by the end of the year.

It was not immediately clear which model Tesla plans to export to India. It currently produces only the Model Y at its factory near Berlin. Under the new Indian policy, companies can import up to 8,000 cars a year at the lower tax rate.

Tesla did not respond to an email seeking comment outside US office hours.

The plans for shipments to India are the first indication of right-hand drive (RHD) cars being produced in Berlin. Tesla's Shanghai plant, its primary export hub located nearer to right-hand-drive markets, such as Australia and Japan, has so far handled production of such vehicles.

Tesla imported RHD Model Y vehicles for its launch in the UK from China and has not said whether it has shifted to importing from Berlin. The carmaker has eyed the Indian market for years and its officials visited the country several times over the past year.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 4 April

Social media platform X (formerly Twitter) has expanded its 'Community Notes' programme to India, a fact-checking feature that allows people to collaborate and add context to potentially misleading posts. The activation of 'Community Notes' programme in India comes at a crucial juncture when the world's most populous democracy is scheduled to hold general Sabha elections over several weeks between April 19 and June 1. The results will be declared on June 4.

Elon Musk, the billionaire entrepreneur, in a post said, "Community Notes is active on India!" Welcoming new contributors in India, X's 'Community Notes' handle posted that first contributors are joining to help we'll be expanding over time. As we'll monitor quality to ensure that notes are found helpful by people from different points of view. Community Notes now has contributors in 69 nations around the world, it said, adding "and we're adding more regularly".

According to information on the X's helpcentre, "Community Notes aims to create a better informed world by empowering people on X to collaboratively add context to potentially misleading posts." Contributors can leave notes on any post and if there are enough contributors from different points of view that note as helpful, the note is published.
